

The Fox and the Grapes

Perseverance

One day, a fox was out walking.

He saw some grapes hanging on a vine and thought how wonderful they would taste.

He jumped up again and again to get the grapes but missed.

Jumping made the fox tired.

The fox wanted the grapes. He tried again and again.

Finally, he grabbed some grapes.

Then he got all the other grapes and walked away happy and content.

AN AESOP FABLE

Moral: Try hard and you will succeed.

Moral: Try hard and you will succeed.